JILL ELLIS, U.S. WOMEN'S NATIONAL TEAM COACH, NAMED GODMOTHER OF THE AVALON PASSION

LITTLETON, Colorado – October 20, 2015 – Today, Avalon Waterways announced that head coach of the championship U.S. Women's National Team, Jill Ellis, will christen the Avalon Passion, the company's 11th Suite Ship in Europe, in 2016.

Of her godmother duties, Jill Ellis said, "I am truly honored to be offered such a unique experience. Passion is such an important part of my life, so to be asked to be the godmother to the Avalon Passion is one of the coolest things I have ever been invited to do. I hope all who travel aboard her have a world-class adventure!"

Ellis will christen the Avalon Passion in an international ceremony that will take place on April 13, 2016 in Linz, Austria.

"As the head coach of the winning U.S. Women's National Soccer Team and former development director of the U.S. Women's Youth National Teams, Jill Ellis has a history of proving that with passion – and hard work – dreams come true," said Patrick Clark, managing director of Avalon Waterways. "As someone who has shown great passion for, verve and vibrancy in cultivating women's soccer, she is the perfect godmother to bless the Avalon Passion."

After the christening ceremony, the 443-foot, 166-passenger Avalon Passion will welcome travelers aboard to cruise the Danube River on such popular itineraries as The Legendary Danube, The Blue Danube Discovery, European Splendor and Grand Danube Cruise, among others.

About Avalon's Suite Ships:

Unlike other cruise ships, Avalon Waterways has designed its Suite Ships with staterooms so beds face the windows – and the incredible sights river cruising is famous for. In fact, on two full decks of every Suite Ship in Europe and Southeast Asia, Avalon Waterways offers travelers a unique point-of-view: One where the view is the whole point.

“In the average cruise cabin, the view from the bed never changes. Travelers are looking at the same scene throughout their voyage: The wall,” said Patrick Clark, managing director of Avalon Waterways. “We had a better idea. We turned our beds so they face out giant windows. To do this, we angled the wall behind the bed – a design innovation that provided two additional benefits. It opened up each stateroom and bathroom, exclusively giving Avalon travelers more space and better views.”

In terms of space, at 200-square-feet, Avalon’s Panorama Suites are 30 percent larger than the average stateroom. In fact, the smallest stateroom in the Avalon fleet is 172-square-feet.

Avalon also takes a different approach to the typical balcony. Instead of providing travelers with a traditional balcony, Avalon Waterways’ Suite Ships offer two full decks of suites with Open-Air Balconies: Floor-to-ceiling, wall-to-wall windows that open 7-feet wide.

“With a focus on bringing the beauty of Europe or Southeast Asia inside, Avalon’s Open-Air Balconies offer our travelers a fresh air, panoramic cruising experience complete with epic views, in every weather condition, without compromising room space,” said Clark. “And when each room’s wall-to-wall panoramic window is closed, the Open-Air Balcony is transformed into a light, inviting and inspirationally designed sitting room that’s perfect for relaxing, reading a book or taking pleasure in a romantic dinner. Avalon’s Open-Air Balcony can be enjoyed any hour of the day, year round, adding considerable comfort to the overall guest experience.”

About Jill Ellis:

Jill Ellis was named the eighth head coach in U.S. Women’s National Team history on May 16, 2014. In her first year at the helm, Ellis led the U.S. Women’s National Team to the Algarve Championship and the 2015 FIFA World Cup.

Prior to taking the reins of the U.S. Women’s National Team, Ellis served as the development director for the U.S. Women’s Youth National Teams.

Ellis joined U.S. Soccer after a highly successful 12-year run as the head women’s soccer coach for the UCLA Bruins. There, Ellis lead UCLA to eight NCAA Final Fours, including seven in a row from 2003 to 2009, and won six straight conference titles from 2003 to 2008. In addition, she was the NSCAA National Coach of the Year in 2000 after leading the Bruins to the NCAA Final.

Before UCLA, Ellis led the University of Illinois' women's soccer program and also served as the assistant coach at the University of Virginia, University of Maryland and North Carolina State. She also played soccer at the College of William & Mary from 1984 to 1987 and was a Third-Team All-American in 1987.

Jill Ellis grew up in Portsmouth, England before coming to the United States at age 15 in 1981. She also lived in Singapore for two years while her father helped to develop a national soccer program in that country. Ellis resides in Palmetto Bay, Florida with her family.
